1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 19-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Raspanti et al, US Patent No. 5,658,973.

There is clear overlap between applicant's claimed invention and that of Raspanti. Patentee claims a stabilizing composition including a combination of piperidine and triazine compounds which directly correspond to applicant's compounds of formulae a) and e). See in particular claim 1 at col. 11, line 1 and claim 4. There is no patentable difference between the present and patented invention as applicant has acknowledged in his remarks filed 2/22/2002. Applicant has indicated that he will provide proof of a reduction to practice of those compounds encompassed by present formula e), since these compounds have not been specifically set forth in applicant's the priority document. This proof will provide sufficient basis to invoke the interference which applicant seeks.
